

● Vote YES ●

TO DEFEND UK CONSTRUCTION JOBS

Unite is set to ballot its engineering construction members to defend their right to work in the industry, defend the integrity of the terms and conditions enshrined in the 'Blue Book' and ensure that these benefits apply to all workers in the industry.

At a time when the engineering construction sector has the ability to be offering quality jobs to working people, UK workers are being excluded from these job opportunities and the hard-won NAECI agreement is under serious threat.

Because the employers' body, the ECIA refused the majority of our demands during negotiations with our unions, Unite and the GMB, we are left with no choice than to ballot our members for industrial action.

What we want:

- a pay rise
- a register of unemployed workers in the industry which the employers must use to fill vacancies
- a transparent and effective auditing system to monitor 'Blue Book' rates and other benefits apply to all
- twelve paid trips home for all workers regardless of where they come from
- ability for union full time official to instigate procedure at any site
- procedure to ensure all workers have appropriate skills (eg ACE card)

John Harris, Report Digital www.reportdigital.co.uk

Whether you work in repair and maintenance or construction the undermining of the NAECI affects you, vote YES to protect our agreement. The 'Blue Book' has improved health and safety and ensured a level of industrial stability across the industry for nearly three decades.

Employers are cherry picking the parts of the agreement they want, or in some cases are ignoring the agreement altogether. Safety incidents are on the increase. Because of this we are facing widespread industrial unrest.

Unite says it is time to defend the NAECI - and protect UK construction.

The ballot for industrial action will begin in July.
You will be sent a ballot form and asked to cast a YES vote for action.

Your union, Unite, is urging you to

Vote YES

to protect pay, skills and safety

Vote YES

to protect NAECI

Vote YES

to protect your future

www.unitetheunion.com

unite
the UNION

● Vote YES ●

TO DEFEND UK CONSTRUCTION JOBS

If we do not defend our agreements today there will be no secure and decently paid construction jobs tomorrow.

Your vote counts, make sure you can use it.

Please fill in the slip below if you haven't already done so and return to your shop steward or full time official ASAP:

Name: _____

Address where you want your ballot form sent to: _____

Union, Unite (Amicus), Unite (TGWU), GMB: _____

Post Code: _____

Membership number: _____

Where you work: _____

Employer: _____

Occupation: _____

Are you currently working on a NAECl 'Blue Book' site? yes/no* *please delete as appropriate _____

Mobile: _____

Email address: _____

www.unitetheunion.com

