

Health and Safety through Partnership

A free event for health and safety reps in the London region

Friday 19th November 2004 10am - 4pm

Congress House, Great Russell Street, London, WC1B

F/C 99mm x 210mm

'Health and Safety through Partnership' is an event designed for you, the workplace health and safety rep. It aims to inform you of developments in health and safety law and policy and to provide you with an opportunity to discuss your issues with key players in the H&S regulatory system.

The role of the workplace trade union rep in developing and supporting excellent health and safety standards is recognised not only by the trade union movement, but also by the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) and Local Authorities. As a workplace safety rep, you are in the forefront of promoting sensible health and safety standards and it is essential that your voice is heard. This event is designed to do just that.

By bringing together key speakers and representatives from the trade union movement, Local Authorities and the HSE, as well as fellow reps in workplaces similar to yours, you will be given direct access to a range of experts in order to address your concerns and questions. You will be given the chance to hear of the latest initiatives, policy developments and, perhaps most importantly, discuss the issues that relate to your workplace with fellow reps, Local Authority and HSE regulators.
