

CELEBRATE BLACK HISTORY MONTH 2011

"Each person must live their lives as a model for others"

A tribute to Rosa Parks 1913 - 2005

"a mother to the freedom movement"

Black History Month is recognised as an important date in the UK calendar and celebrates the significant role that black people have played in UK history and continue to play in today's society.

Let us use Black History Month as an opportunity, particularly amongst younger people, to bring to light the value of having a multicultural society. At the same time, we must continue to challenge racism, promote race equality and champion good practice.

"We extend Black History Month greetings to everyone and pay tribute to the contribution that black people have made in all areas of our society, including at work and in trade unions."
