Are you a safety rep? If so, do you have a safety reps' credentials card as pictured below?

If you do not have one, find out how to get your credentials here so you are able to make full use of your rights as an Amicus safety rep.

Health and Safety

Everyone has the right to work in a healthy, safe environment. Unite, Amicus section offers the latest training, information and advice to representatives, members and employers to ensure that best practice is followed, creating healthier, safer working environments for everyone. For more information on these areas, see the links below.

Health and safety structure

Locally Unite, Amicus section has around 10,000 safety reps that are supported by branches, regions and national staff and resources. Safety reps deal with issues locally supported by their senior workplace reps. If you have a health and safety question and cannot find the answer in the links below you should contact your safety rep, your regional office or call Membership Department on 020 8462 7755 to find out your regional office contact details.

Four Health and Safety Officers (Keir Clayton, Bud Hudspith, Debbie Hutchings, and Rob Miguel) at head office lead on particular health & safety policy issues, advise union officers and members, write safety guidance, advise on various Industrial Advisory Committees and liaise with Government and other public bodies. There is one Researcher (Chris O'Leary) and one Research Assistant (Ray Cawley) in the Research Department dealing with health & safety.
