

Join us to protect the principles of OUR NHS

Almost 60 years after its creation our National Health Service is still largely owned and run by the public sector and we need to send a strong message to government that we want to keep it that way.

A national demonstration involving a wide range of trade unions will take place on 3rd November 2007 in London.

Unite wants to send out the message that the NHS belongs to everyone and its principles must be protected. We are urging you to join us in this campaign and attend the demonstration and ensure the future of our NHS.
