Dear Jon

Pensions Consultation

As you will know Unite CMA remains concerned about the consultation that the Royal Mail is about to launch on the subject of pensions.

As we discussed last Monday, Unite has many concerns about the Royal Mail position and we remain committed to find a workable solution to this issue. I know you have seen a communication to our members on the subject and you are well aware of the concerns that we have. That said, we are prepared to meet in a final effort to identify the possibility of progress before Royal Mail launches its consultation. At this end we are prepared to meet with you immediately if you believe that there is a real possibility of us making some positive progress.

Yours sincerely

Paul Reuter
National Secretary
