

To UNITE members facing a job move or redundancy

Dear Colleague

At times like these, being a member of a Union is as important as ever, if not more so. Leaving a Company that you have worked at for a number of years is never easy. Starting new employment can be a significant change in a person's life. This is intended to help you keep in touch. Remember as a member of Unite you are entitled to:

1. Excused payment of contributions whilst you are unemployed.
2. If you start at a company that has recognised Unite the you will immediately have the support of a team of reps (workplace, health & safety and learning).
3. If you start at a company that does not recognise a Trade Union we can still accompany you on any grievance or disciplinary issues.
4. You are still covered by our legal aid scheme.
5. When you start work again, you can pay by easy monthly direct debit.
6. There are many other ways that we can help after you have left your company – for instance helping with developing new skills.

This is what we would like you to do. Complete the form below and return it to your Unite RLO. The contact details are overleaf.
