

SUPPORT THE AMICUS CANDIDATE FOR THE HEALTH PROFESSIONS ELECTION

VOTE FOR DAVID RAWLINGS

I have a lifetime of Health Service experience and commitment and I am well aware of the responsibilities that representation at this level means.

I have been working as a clinical scientist for 25 years.

I am based in the Newcastle-upon-Tyne area and live in Whitley Bay.

I support radiation measurements across the northern region, including the monitoring of some 3000 members of staff.

I also contribute to the management and running of a busy clinical service, bone densitometry.

This involves me in regular “hands-on” patient contact and provides opportunities for multidisciplinary working.

As radiation protection adviser to a number of NHS trusts, I have a role that involves liaison with a range of different staff groups.

As accredited union representative I have sat on management liaison groups and acted as member’s advocate in disciplinary matters.

I am involved in teaching and training at a range of levels.

I have acted as external examiner for a radiography degree and an assessor for the accreditation of radiation protection advisers.

I believe it is important that registration is seen to be a robust guarantee of standards.

If elected I promise to uphold this ideal as transparently and openly as possible.
